ABCD - Support #298

Editorial notes: Unit

11/15/2016 02:18 PM - L. Lertsutham

Status:	New		Start date:	11/15/2016
Priority:	Normal		Due date:
Assignee:			% Done:	0%
Category:	Documentation		Estimated time:	0.00 hour
Target version:

Description

xpath: /DataSets/DataSet/Units/Unit

content: A container for all data referring to a unit (specimen or observation record).

Editorial notes: Is the group for this element 'container'? Yes, it is. Indeed, I think we need two subgroups for Container: one for the repeatable elements, and one for the structural containers (like this one). I will further discuss this on the Group page on the wiki.

History

#1 - 01/23/2017 02:27 PM - D. Fichtmüller

- Project changed from ABCD 3.0 Project to ABCD

- Category set to Documentation

What is the action item here: should we start using different words for the two different kinds of containers (the ones containing one repeatable element and the ones containing several different elements), should we mark the 137 repeatable elements in ABCD in the TDWG Terms Wiki in a special way and/or should we clean the editorial note on the Unit element (already done)?

#2 - 02/21/2017 02:12 PM - L. Lertsutham

- Description updated